

Global Survey on Theological Education

Joint Research Project on Theological Education in World Christianity
2011-2012

You are invited to participate in a major new research project on the state of theological education—current trends, ongoing challenges, and expectations for the future.

- The project is designed to gather data and perspectives on all forms of theological education in every Christian tradition from all parts of the world.
- Everyone interested in education for ministry (ordained and lay) and preparation for research and teaching in theology is invited to participate by completing the survey.
- Empirical data will also be collected from all individual institutions of theological education and all associations of theological schools.
